

CBI Begins Steps to Join the Official Monetary and Financial Institutions Forum (OMFIF)

The Central Bank of Iraq has begun steps to join the official monetary and Financial Institutions Forum (OMFIF), an independent global think tank for central banking, pension funds and financial institutions with investment assets worth $ 36.2 trillion.

The membership of the forum provides insight into key topics for investment in two integrated channels of analysis and meetings, through high-level exchanges and content, as well as participation in meetings with the International Monetary Fund, the Bank of England and the German Central Bank.

The accession process also benefits from employees ability building opportunities for mid-level and senior staff. OMFIF develops projects for members in London, Singapore, Washington, and other global financial centers.
